The holidays are just a couple of months away.

Are you looking for that perfect gift for someone who has everything?

Why not get the first-ever, officially licensed, University of Florida universal remote control?

Now, I know all of you aren't Gator fans out there, believe me, I'm not. But right now the Gator remote is one of a few available. I guess winning the National Championship last year might have had something to do with that. Yeah, yeah, yeah, I know, they hold back-to-back basketball championships, too. I get it.

Anyway, Miami, Florida State and other colleges are or will be available sometime soon. Click here to see if your school is available.
